The object of the NLU is to impart socially relevant education that focuses on creating excellent/human resource in aid to nation-building exercise through the instrumentalities of legal education and research. Its aim is to expand beyond the class-room and engage in activities that add value to professional acumen of individuals, simultaneously garnering the best of their potential. The courses are rigorous; but the end-results are mostly satisfying. It is customary to begin the journey with an orientation programme, which will spell out the role, of respective stake-holders - students, teachers, parents, administration and authorities of the University — in designing the road map to success. We will have the privilege of hearing eminent judges, legal luminaries, erudite scholars and academic administrators and be guided by their wisdom. The University will observe its Seventh Orientation Day on Friday, 3rd September 2021, when all newly admitted students and their parents will participate in a day-long event beginning at 11:00 AM (IST). There will be two to three interactive sessions, where views and suggestions for improvement will be exchanged. The programme schedule is enclosed. However, detailed orientation with respect to respective departments and activities will follow during the week. On behalf of the University community and on my personal behalf, I invite you to join the Orientation Day programme and actively participate in the deliberations.

Regular classes of the first semester will commence from Monday, 6th September 2021 and will continue without break till the end-term examinations. As of now the classes shall commence online, however, the student is expected to join the hostel once the physical classes resume. The same will be intimated once the situation becomes normal.

We look forward to meet you soon.

With regards,

ACellanath
